

Jinho Yang

Jinho Yang is a co-founder of Toss Lab, the start-up providing enterprise communication and collaboration tool called JANDI, simply known as 'Asian Slack'.

As the Chief Operation Officer of Toss Lab, he is currently responsible for all business activities including sales, marketing, operation, and customer experience. He actively participates in various seminars and conferences to share his insights and strategy for digital transformation enhancing productivity of organizations.

Before joining Toss Lab in 2014, Jinho Yang worked as an Mergers and Acquisitions Analyst in Barclays based in Hong Kong.

Jinho graduated from the Wharton School with a Bachelor of Sciences degree in Finance.